Career Objective

Hello, I am Leonardo M. Leão, 23 years old and Brazilian. IT is my passion in life, I choose it as my profession because of my eagerness to learn new things, knowing I would always have a lot to study. One of my favorite aspects of my work is the ability to provide knowledge to those who need, letting people focus on what they do best while doing what I do best.

In a recent work trip to Germany I realized I wanted to work abroad so now I'm on a journey to do that pursuing an international career. Getting exposed to a multinational work environment while getting involved in cultural exchange is my current goal.

Skills

► Communication

User support experience and volunteer work as a bible teacher allows me to speak for audiences or strangers with no problem

► Organisational / managerial skills

It's only me and a colleague managing the entire IT dept. in my current job. I'm responsible for everything - IT related, and non related too :)

► Development

Dev allows us to create things from nowhere, and that's awesome! It's a hobby and profession for me. From low-level programming to crazy python code, you name it, if I don't already know something about it I will learn and do it!

.... curiosity counts as a skill right?
